

Dicerna Pharmaceuticals, Inc. (“Dicerna”) PHYOX Cookies Policy

UPDATED as of August 2019

A. Cookies and their Use.

1. Cookies are pieces of data created when you visit a website. They are stored on your computer and are sent back to the website or to another website that recognizes the cookie. A cookie typically contains the name of the website from which the cookie has come; the lifetime of the cookie; and a value, usually a randomly generated unique number. Our cookies do not contain any personally-identifiable information and cannot collect information from your hard drive.

2. We use analytics programs to gather non-personal data regarding the visitors to our site, on our behalf, using cookies and code embedded in the site. This helps us analyze data about web page traffic and improve our website in order to tailor it to your needs. We only use this information for analysis purposes.

The types of use we make of your information may include one or more of the following circumstances:

We use cookies for, among other things:

- (a) authentication - we use cookies to identify you when you visit our website and as you navigate our website.
- (b) status - we use cookies to enable us to determine if you are logged into our website;
- (c) personalization - we use cookies to store information about your preferences and to personalize our website for you;
- (e) security - we use cookies as an element of the security measures used to protect user accounts, including preventing inappropriate use of login credentials, and in general to protect our website and services;

3. Although your browser may be set up to allow the creation of cookies, you can specify that you be prompted before a site puts a cookie on your hard disk, so that you can decide whether to allow or disallow the cookie. Alternatively, you can set your computer not to accept any cookie.

B. Blocking Our Cookies

1. We do not use cookies to collect personally identifiable information about you but if you wish to restrict or block the cookies on our site, or indeed any other website, you can do this through your browser settings.

2. You may wish to visit www.aboutcookies.org which contains information on how to do this on a wide variety of browsers. You will also find details on how to delete cookies from your machine as well as more general information about cookies.

3. Please be aware that restricting cookies may impact or reduce the functionality of some websites. For information on how to do this on the browser of your mobile phone, please refer to your handset manual.

C. Cookies set by Third Parties

Third-party cookies are cookies that are set by a website other than ours. For example, we might have a Facebook like button on our site. That like button will set a cookie that can be read by Facebook. That would be considered a third-party cookie. We do not have control over the cookies set by these services and you should be aware of their policies and how that might differ from our cookie policy.
